RegulatoryOne is your global authoritative source for regulatory information management

Unifying regulatory data, documents, dossiers and registrations

Bringing compliant products to market has never been more complex. Compounding an ever-changing regulatory landscape is the fact that most companies still struggle with poor data quality, duplication, and limited visibility into regulatory activities because of disjointed processes. Reducing and managing this complexity is a critical step in satisfying compliance requirements globally and accelerating a product's time to market.

RegulatoryOne provides a global authoritative source for regulatory documents and information. Content and data converge on a single cloud platform to unify regulatory data, documents, dossiers, and registrations.

Establishing a single source of truth for regulatory information dramatically increases efficiency. Data and documents are entered just once and are accessible in any context. This approach minimizes discrepancies and uncontrolled copies, ensuring your information is accurate, timely, and easily found. Organizations can respond faster to product and regulatory changes or compliance concerns.

Key Business Benefits

- Velocity to Market: Today's market forces demand that companies stay agile and responsive to meet regulatory changes and customer expectations. From quickly assessing the impact of a proposed product or formulation change, to locating the substantiating and source documentation, and finally coordinating activities on a global, regional and local basis, RegulatoryOne has you covered.

- Reliable Data: Create a single source of truth for your product portfolio by capturing timely and accurate information. Information and content are stored once and can be accessed globally. This ensures data integrity as you coordinate product release processes across your stakeholders.

- Global Coordination & Alignment: As a cloud-based software solution, RegulatoryOne seamlessly orchestrates compliance related activities across manufacturing sites, supply chains, outsourced manufacturers and all internal stakeholders. Product information is accurate, timely and accessible throughout the entire product lifecycle.
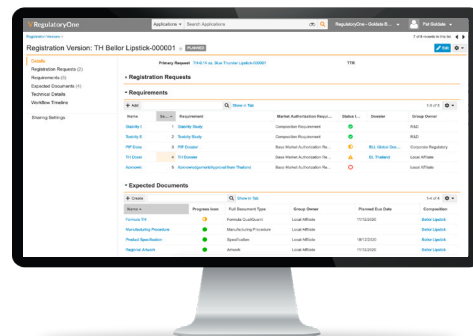

RegulatoryOne Solution Features

RegulatoryOne Registrations and Certifications

RegulatoryOne's registration capabilities empower your teams to manage product registration information globally. Achieve a single, unified view of product data by registration status, by market, by variation – as well as all communication with regulatory bodies.

As a shared resource for headquarters and affiliates, our registrations capabilities help globalize key processes and improve overall data quality.

RegulatoryOne Document Control

Documents are the lifeblood of regulatory communication and a transparent, secure, single source of truth for global documents is a critical foundation and enabler of speed, efficiency, and accuracy.

RegulatoryOne provides powerful document control features including "google-like" search, version control, templates, workflow approvals and collaboration tools that maximize communication, compliance, and efficiency.

This approach reduces discrepancies and uncontrolled versions, ensuring that your regulatory information is accurate, timely and easy to find, enabling informed decision-making and faster assessment of regulatory document changes.

Standardized regulatory documents and data puts your documents into true relational context with products, raw materials, studies and more.

RegulatoryOne Dossier Management

RegulatoryOne automates the planning, collection, review, and approval of all documents and data, on a global scale, including third party and retailer certifications. Dossier and document templates ensure requirements, knowledge and best practices are institutionalized to ensure accuracy and efficiency.

RegulatoryOne submissions shows you expected documents and requirements, and you can track registration completeness in real-time without manual updates. Templates and placeholders assist with the creation and collection of documents and other requirements, while the application's reporting and approval workflows ensure necessary documents are included and complete.

Ultimately, RegulatoryOne's capabilities provide you with full traceability for all your regulatory activities.

RegulatoryOne Compliance Management

Increasing customer and consumer demands for transparency are driving exponential growth in product stewardship and regulatory data demands.

RegulatoryOne accelerates the management and completion of various type of regulatory requests by creating a global source of truth for requests, assignments and responses supported by workflows and a powerful, integrated document and data library. Real time kpi's and dashboards enable agility and unlock fresh insights.

RegulatoryOne Compliance Management brings you closer to your customers and suppliers through the use of collaboration tools, supports the evolution from document compliance to data compliance, and is an enabler for product and raw material selection and insight.
